The editorial board would like to acknowledge the indispensable work of those who reviewed articles and proofread our journal.

To our readers: Connections, a journal published by FLANC, is directed to the world language professional in the classroom. There are many changes and new technologies that are impacting the way that we teach. Through the articles that appear in the journal we hope to spark consideration of additional strategies and methods for the teacher as well as give an outlet to the many creative thoughts that come from our conferences and discussions. We all want to improve the outcomes of our students in the classroom.

At the same time we urge the presenters at our conferences to consider submitting an article on their successful approaches in the classroom. Consider sending us an article; the information on submissions follows.

Thanking you all in advance, we look forward to hearing from you,

Editorial Board, Connections
